Annette's review "As a disabled person I needed a mobility scooter as I was more and more isolated, if it had not been for a loan from St Machar Credit Union, I would never have had the funding to buy one. It has changed my life so much, not just with the mobility part of it but being able to reconnect with people, attend groups, and build up my self-confidence. CUMMINGS PARK COMMUNITY FLAT

We were delighted to meet some new people this term. We had a visit to shmuHQ where we met with Kirsteen, who was kind enough to show us round the amazing new premises. Meeting Rose and having her come along to the flat to support the volunteers with the Cumming North magazine has been a delight. If anyone else would like to join the magazine editorial team, they would be made very welcome. Your ideas and input are very valuable.

We welcome back Councillor Gordon Graham who is going to offer a surgery within the flat every second Thursday of the Month, starting on Thursday 8th of September at 12.00pm. Come along and say "hello" and discuss issues that are affecting you.

A session on energy saving with Diane from Home Energy Scotland was very informative. If more people want to find out how to keep themselves warm over the winter months, we could arrange for Diane to come back.

Bea and Elli from ACVO have been great sources of information and we continue to appreciate their support.

Nicky from CFine continues to provide information around food outlets and pantries.

Theresa from Pathways is at the flat every Thursday. If you need back to work advice, please get in touch with her on 01224 682939 or call us and we will pass your details on to her.

Wayne from Adult Learning is supporting people into Literacy and Computing classes within the flat. Contact us at the flat, or the adult learning team on adultlearning@aberdeency.gov.uk if you are interested in Adult Learning Classes. Classes are being offered throughout the city.

Give us a call on 01224 681357 if you would like a chat, if you have ideas on group activities and can spare a couple of hours to lead or take part in a group, or if you would just like a little company and a cup of tea, please get in touch. dosim@aberdeency.gov.uk

Donna Sim

Hello all, Mrs Meadows here!

Well, we have had such mixed weather lately, haven't we? It could be bad for the garden as the plants are drying out and weathering. Crops are not growing as they should. Berries are being taken by the birds.

However, we had a very good crop of strawberries over the very hot and dry period which meant the slugs and snails were not out to eat them. Apples, pears, and gooseberries are doing well now that the rain has arrived.

The garden assessors are visiting the community garden on the 24th of August, and we hope to get a glowing report.

If you want to learn some tips and gain some advice about growing fruits, vegetables, flowers and/or herbs, I would be delighted to share my knowledge. You may well have seen me in one of our gardens. Please come and say hello.

FROM ALL OF US

A big thank you to Pat for her continuous dedication to the flat gardens. This lady is amazing. We are truly grateful for what she has done for our gardens and for the community. She hates a fuss so we will say no more.

We thank Jim for coming to help us every week with digging, planting and clearing our garden, as well as helping a local lady with her garden. Thank you, George, for making our bug house, making the garden path edging, providing, and upcycling our seats and providing support for the bird house (and Theresa loves her hedgehog house). Thank you to Heather for helping to fix our greenhouse and to Mark and Gary for cutting our grass at the start of the season.

We would like to show our gratitude for the help and support provided by Willowdale staff and volunteers. What they have helped us with, far too many tasks to list, is exceptional. We truly appreciate the difference they have made. Thank you!

QUEST FOR COMMUNITY

By Sean Small

People have inhabited the lands of what is now known as Scotland for more than 9000 years. Initially, the first visitors would arrive in the summers to fish, hunt and forage the fertile lands. Two thousand years later, the visiting peoples of continental Europe settled down and called these lands their home. The first peoples to live in Scotland were small tribes of family and close friends. Life was structured around the needs of the community. Each person played a critical role of the continuation and survival of the community. The elders established laws, social structure and provided education. Farming was introduced to Scotland around 4000 years ago. While the change in lifestyle fundamentally altered the way that the people of Scotland lived, the community remained an important feature of everyday life.

Fast forward to one hundred years ago and we find ourselves in the industrial era. The Industrial Era once again transformed the way we live work and interact with one another. However, in comparison to the previous times, one difference is that the Industrial Age gave birth to the Age of the Individual. Individualism enabled more freedom in terms of how we choose to live our lives. But it decreased the need to interact and cooperate with other people to the same extent. Writing in the 1950s, the sociologist Robert Nesbit raised his concerns about the impact that capitalism and individualism would have on community life in his book The Quest for Community. Only very recently have we begun to see the human cost of individual freedom. We are more isolated, depressed, neurotic, and disconnected from each other and the natural world than ever before. The main reason being, we depend on meaningful social interaction for emotional and physical wellbeing. In this article, I want to share with you some of the reasons why engaging in community-based activities can help to not only improve emotional wellbeing but help ignite a sense of community spirit.

There is strong evidence to suggest that engaging with your community helps to improve self-esteem and sense of self-worth. In his bestselling novel Tribe, Sebastian Junger writes that while working as a war journalist in war torn Afghanistan, he found that levels of crime fell. Junger also found that during the devastating events of Hurricane Katrina, despite the news reports of looting and crime, the evidence actually showed a marked decline in crime and increase in social exchange. These events were an equalising force.

During the time spent in and New Orleans and Afghanistan, Junger found that people from distinct social, cultural and economic backgrounds worked together to survive. Rich or poor alike, the people of these communities worked together for a common purpose. However, it is possible to achieve the same results without the need to have to experience war or natural disaster.

By engaging in community-based activities, you can help to reimagine and rebuild a thriving community. It is also known to boost self-esteem and a sense of self-worth. Community based work also provides a sense of belonging which is key to good emotional wellbeing. It also gives the opportunity to learn new skills and a sense of being in the present moment. Last but not least, engaging in community-based activity offers the opportunity to give to those in need. By working together for a common purpose, it is possible to improve the quality of life for all who live in the community without social exclusions.

If you would like to learn more about the issues raised in this article, I strongly recommend The Quest for Community and Tribe. Copies can be found on the Aberdeen City's Library catalogue and can be ordered to your local library for convenience.

ways to get involved in your community

There are so many different ways to get involved with your community, and there is certainly no shortage of organisations in the area looking for participants to get involved! Whether you are looking to get involved with your community to try new things, build more skills, or get to know the area and your neighbours, there are many ways to get stuck in.

Donate resources

One key way to help out in the community is to donate your resources to community causes. Times are tough and hitting people harder and harder. Many who were once able to give what they could manage are finding that they can no longer manage that and be able to provide for themselves and their family.

If you are interested in donating to community causes but understandably cannot spare anything material, don't be disheartened. Time is a valuable resource.

If you can spare any small amount of time to help out in your area, by volunteering, do so.

Volunteering

There are many places from the Northfield Community Centre, Cummings Park Centre or Cummings Park Community Flat in the area to volunteer at.

There are also a multitude of ways to volunteer. From volunteering an hour or two of your time at an event, helping at a foodbank or volunteering your services to teach a group, if you have a skill or craft that could be passed on.

Join Groups

There are plenty of established groups in Northfield and Cummings Park that are available to join. Joining groups is a great way to meet new people and build friendships and while trying new things or building skills.

Why not get in touch with the various community venues and local places of worship, to find out what groups they run and how to join!

Northfield Community Centre Art Group

There are many fun groups which run at Northfield Community centre, the Craft Group which runs from 10am -1pm on Wednesday's is just one.

The craft group is open to all in the area, of any level of ability, the attendees tend to please themselves, crafting away on their own projects, sharing tips and tricks, sometimes working together on projects.

Lorna, Isabelle and Hazel have been working on Decoupage trinket boxes recently but have tried their hand at painting, candle decorating and plenty of other arts and crafts.

The group is also known to turn into a right good catch up, the sessions had to be extended to accommodate some time getting distracted blethering, before the crafting begins.

"It's more of a chat and art group, a chat group! We talk about anything and everything. It's nice to have a chance to talk to people and keep up," said Isabelle.

"There is no instructor, we are free to do our own thing and we can get hints and tips from each other."

The group have recently received a grant to spend however they like, they have thought about the different equipment which may be useful such as new paints and brushes. Or even getting an instructor for some sessions to help build their crafting skills.

Get in touch with Northfield Community Centre if you'd like to join the group or if you have any crafting skills you could teach the group! You can email admin@northfieldcommunitycentremc.org or call 01224 695416.

STEWART PARK

Recently, I had the opportunity to go on a guided tour of Stewart Park. It was run by the Health Walks at Aberdeen Football Club Community Trust. I have never thought to visit Stewart Park before so it was fascinating to learn a little bit about the location in the past and where some of their historical artefacts came from. As you walk through the park there were little information stands created by Aberdeen Women's Alliance you could read as you were walking down the paths.

The first part of the tour started off at the site of the old Hilton quarries. The quarries were first seen on an 1869 Ordnance Survey which showed they were disused and full of water. Most of the south part of the quarries were situated south of Hilton Road whilst the northern part was situated parts of what is Stewart Park today. It is still possible to see some of the remains of the quarries. Several rock faces as tall as 6 feet can be seen from the Hilton Woodies area.

As the tour continued, we came to what I thought was a decorative archway. I was stunned to discover that it was actually a pair of lower whale jaw bones. The captain of the whaling ship, the Benbow, presented the jaw bones as a gift to the park in 1903. The jaw bones hung from the masts of whaling ships as a way to collect oil that was dripping, Whale jaw bones were seen as a symbol of pride and captains would commonly display them in their gardens as a way to show off their arctic adventures. Whales were hunted a lot during the 19th century for their baleen and oil. Baleen is made of keratin and can be found in the upper jaw. Before plastic, baleen was used to make several items such as corsets, crinolines, fans, and umbrellas. Today, there are a lower number of whales and they are protected due to the near extinction they faced during the 19th century.

There was some information about Mrs Jean Taylor. She and her husband owned a family grocer at 207 Baron Street and lived a few doors down at 213. They were familiar with many families in Woodside and knew the struggles they faced. A sum of £500 was bequeathed after Mrs Taylor's death in 1888. The money was to be put towards a children's playground in Woodside as her wish. The Commissioners of the Burgh of Woodside struggled to find a suitable location until 1890 during the incorporation of the Burgh into Aberdeen City. A sum of £1,800 was given from Aberdeen Town Council to be allocated towards the purchase of fourteen acres of land in the Hilton Housing estate. The park was opened on 8th June 1894.

The Taylor Memorial Well was created in memory of Mrs Jean Taylor. Aberdeen Town Council paid for it to be created and the design of the well was a replica of an Italian Lavabo.

The sculptor of the well was Arthur Taylor of Jute Street. The front of the well was constructed of Kemnay granite whilst the back used Rubislaw granite. There is an inscription in the centre of the well which reads, "Erected to the memory of Mrs Taylor, widow of the late John Taylor, Merchant in Woodside, who gifted this piece of ground to be used as a children's playground."

Mike's Nature round up

Now summer is almost over and Autumn will soon arrive, it's a when nature begins to fall back and prepare for winter. I of course do not just refer to the changing leaves on the trees, I am fortunate to have a nature garden in which not only the birds and bees are present but also a range of creatures from beasties to passing badgers.

The most visible on the ground is our resident hedgehog, or bog the hog as we call it, this year as in the past we have hoglets, we need to be careful if strimming and mowing as not to harm or disturb them. They devour all sorts of bugs and our garden is "snail heaven" so a plentiful supply seems on hand but extra food is always welcome as they need to fatten for winter, and hibernation.

However, if too small they will not hibernate and with no fat reserves will perish, we have field mice aplenty, fortunately they do not come into the house, water is an essential for all birds and beasts all year round so a clean supply is needed, take care of the nature you see, it is their home too. Enjoy

Local MSP Jackie Dunbar Visits Hamewith Lodge

Hamewith Lodge was visited on Wednesday afternoon 3rd of August by local MSP Jackie Dunbar of the SNP.

During the afternoon residents had a chat with Jackie. The event was a lovely opportunity for the residents to come together and socialise while being able to meet with their representative in Parliament.

Activities coordinator Colin commented – it is great to have Jackie along, promoting opportunities for care home residents and staff to meet with the government and build relationships is key for helping Care to thrive. Working together we hope we can help build up our residents and each other as we work together as an industry.

Getting recycling right

Aberdeen City Council opened its Materials Recovery Facility (MRF) and introduced the new recycling service in 2017. Household recycling rate has risen from 38.8% to 49%. Whilst this is good news, we would like to improve this and we need your help to do so.

Please consider whether you can recycle an item before you put it in your waste bin.

What can I recycle in Aberdeen?

Whether you use your own wheeled bin or a communal bin you can recycle the following:

Glass bottles and jars;

Plastics bottles, trays and tubs – all colours;

Paper and cardboard;

Metal tins and cans, including empty aerosols, foil and foil trays;

Food and drink cartons.

All recycling should be free of food and rinsed.

What items are non-recyclable and should go in your waste bin:

Plastic bags or bin bags – think about reusing plastic bags

Plastic film

Mixed material packaging e.g., crisp packets or crisp tubes

Bubble wrap - reuse for parcels especially closer to Christmas

Food waste - use your food waste bin for this

Polystyrene/foam trays - use these to fill the bottom of plant pots to help drainage instead of rocks

Nappies – please put this in your general waste bin or invest in reusable nappies for an improved environmental impact.

Drinking glasses/Pyrex

Plastic plant pots - return to your garden centre for re-use

To find out more about what happens to your recycling after it gets collected, take a virtual tour of Aberdeen's state-of-the-art sorting facility www.youtube.com/watch?v=C6XhtWgWQXQ

Aberdeen residents can also now apply for Garden Waste permits for their brown bin for 2022 to 2023.

This permit costs £30 and covers fortnightly collections of two bins of garden waste for the year. For an extra £30, residents can apply for a third garden bin.

Apply for a permit via Aberdeen City Council's website.

Brown bins can still be used for food waste only, without a permit.

Gordon Graham

Things are getting back to as near normal as possible and it's great to be out and about and enjoying more freedom. The Last few years were extremely hard for residents with the lock downs and struggles to get repairs and other services.

I realize that the next few years are going to be tough and that we must deal with higher food prices, gas and electric going up as well as other costs. I will do my best to highlight concerns and put pressure on the government help the low paid workers and people in need.

I have now managed to arrange face to face surgeries and posters will soon be displayed throughout the community to advise people. In the meantime please note these times.

If people have any pressing matters, then I can be contacted at the email address and telephone number below.

I am due to attend Northfield swimming pool to see how progress is going however this will be too late to update you in this issue, the positive thing is that it should be open by the time you read this.

Despite sending numerous letters, I still have no answers to report in regard to Proposed New Health Centre/Doctors Surgery at Greenferns/Healthy Hoose Manor Avenue. Having written to the Scottish Government asking for their assistance in this matter and not getting a response, I have enlisted the help of Michael Marra MSP.

We went along to the Hub and listened to the concerns of people and how hard it is now to get services that were easily accessible previously. Together Michael Marra and I will work hard to ensure the Scottish Government and Grampian Health Board keep to the promises made to people in the area and we get the services we deserve and once enjoyed.

As promised work has been completed to improve Byrons Square such as the pavements in front of the shops and the car Park. I will be having a tour of the square with council officials, and I will advise through the next edition.

Ukrainian Refugees

Many of shmu's various strands have had the wonderful opportunity to attend Rosemount Community Centre to meet with and deliver sessions to Ukrainian families who have landed in the city.

The Rosemount Community Centre have been host to a weekly event which allows refugees to access help, support and a chance to discover Aberdeen's organisations.

The strands shmuPRESS, FM and TV have also delivered media tasters, to give the event goers an idea of what shmu can do and how they can get involved. The creative bunch were keen to try using some of the equipment such as the podcast kit, they enjoyed discovering what it would be like to have a radio show!
